

PUBLIC DAILY LEDGER

SIXTH YEAR.

MAYSVILLE, KY., THURSDAY, JANUARY 28, 1897.

ONE CENT.

IF you have friends visiting you, or if you are going away on a visit, please drop us a note to this effect.

Mr. James N. Kirk returned last night from Norfolk, Va.

Mr. M. Davis arrived home today from a tour of the West.

Miss Minnie Phip of Ripley is the guest of Miss Lillie Weiland.

IF you have an item of news, please call up THE LEDGER, Telephone 35, and send it in.

Two lives were lost by a hotel fire at Fort Smith, Ark., which caused a loss of $40,000.

The new Methodist Church at Morehead will be dedicated next Sunday by Rev. H. O. Moore.

Miss Mary P. Chambers announces herself in today's LEDGER as a candidate for County Superintendent of Public Schools. Miss Chambers comes from one of the oldest and most respected families of Mason, and is one of the best educated and most widely known ladies of the county. Her past experience with school work qualifies her for the position to which she aspires, and should she receive the nomination would make a most faithful official.

ANOTHER ADVENTURER!

Barnstomer Bishop Comes to Grief Early This Morning.

ARRESTED FOR KIDNAPING A CHILD.

Another has come, and saw, and partially conquered—and gone with "brucelets" on his wrists.

Some weeks ago a fellow giving his name as Charles Bishop swooped down upon our devoted city.

He had the proverbial glib tongue and said he was an Actor.

With him was a pretty little Miss, about 15 years of age.

She, he said, was his wife, and she was an Actorine, programmed as "Mrs. Madge Bishop."

Her right name is Mabel Stanton, and her parents are well-to-do residents of Adrian, Mich.

Soon after his arrival, Barnstomer Bishop began working upon the susceptibilities of our people, endeavoring to get several organizations of ladies enlisted in his enterprise.

He first tried the Daughters of Rebekah, representing that if they would join him in getting up an entertainment at the Opera-house both parties could make considerable money.

These ladies, however, soon saw that they would have to bear the burden of the work—and give the lion's share of the amount to Bishop.

Therefore, they said "Nix" with a big boldface N.

He then tried the ladies of the Episcopal Guild, where he also met a respectful refusal.

Finally he prevailed upon the Redmen to join him, and the entertainment is billed for this evening.

[Notwithstanding what follows, however, the entertainment will come off as announced.—EDITOR LEDGER.]

Now to the sequel.

At 10:45 last night an officer arrived from Adrian.

He was commissioned to arrest Charles Bishop on a charge of kidnaping the girl who was with him.

At about 2 o'clock this morning Bishop was transferred from his bed at a private boarding-house and furnished with less expensive lodgings at the County Jail.

The young Miss was permitted to remain at the boarding-house.

At 5:45 this morning a cab conveyed the Michigan officer and Bishop and his pretended wife to the C. and O. West-bound train, and at this writing they are well on their way to the Northwest, where the thermometer is dancing below zero, but where Bishop will probably find it hot enough.

MAYSVILLE WEATHER.

What We May Expect For the Next Twenty-Four Hours.

THE LEDGER'S WEATHER SIGNALS.

White streamer—RAIN.

Blue—RAIN or SNOW.

With black above—WINDY WARMER.

With black below—COLDEN—WINDY.

Chilled—WINDY—NO CHANCE.

The above forecasts are made for a 24-hour period ending at 7 o'clock.

Chopped hands and faces healed by using Chenoweth's Cream Lotion. Try it.

Mrs. Jo. H. Thomas continues very low at Danville, and her family has abandoned all hope.

Justin Martin of Bell county, who is 77 years old, married Malinda Stubbs, aged 16.

Mrs. Mary E. McKibben has bought a house on Fifth street from A. N. Sapp for $1,000.

Mr. Eli C. Pegue and Miss Scott Laytham, both of this county, married today at Mayfield.

In a fight in a gambling-house at Frankfort, Ky. Williams cut Peter Knight's throat from ear to ear.

Rev. F. M. Tindler of Mayfield will assist Rev. R. H. Dodson in a protracted meeting at New Richmond.

Lewis K. Parry has his Family Grocery now open, with an entirely new stock, at 230 Market street. Goods delivered promptly to any part of the city.

It develops that the securities turned over to the Newport First National Bank by the Cashier, and said to be worth $162,000, in reality does not represent over $35,000.

The Regent of the "Valentine Peers" Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution is anxious to have every daughter meet with her on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Business of importance.

The reports from Deputy Collector Robert L. Baldwin are of a more encouraging nature. He rested easily last night, and the symptoms this morning are more favorable.

C. B. Avey, the man who some time ago had a laundry in this city, was "hosed up" before Chief Dietrich at Cincinnati for a somewhat shady transaction with a rural merchant. Avey says everything was straight; the Chief says the deal was "irregular."

Next to the Plumber comes the man. That jolly, happy soul. Who takes your order smilingly. And sends a cart of his.

The Rev. E. L. Powell, formerly of this city, preached the funeral sermon of the late Hon. Albert S. Willis, United States Minister to Hawaii. The services were held at the Christian Church, Fourth and Walnut, Louisville, of which Mr. Willis was a member. Rev. Powell was assisted by the Rev. Reverdy Estill of the Episcopal Church, to which Mrs. Willis belongs.

WORD OF WARNING.

How to Prevent Water-Backs in Ranges From Freezing and Bursting.

During every cold spell cattle house-keepers are likely to suffer from bursting water-backs in ranges.

And often there are explosions doing great damage and endangering life.

Now, it is a very easy matter to keep the water-backs in the ranges from freezing if a little judgment is used.

It is usually the case that when the "engineer" finds the range in the kitchen is out of working order she begins at once to build a hot fire as possible "in order to melt the ice in the water-back." But this is where they make their mistake. When it is discovered that the range is out of order the person operating it should build as small a fire as possible, so that it may merely warm the range.

In this way the rapid formation of steam will be avoided, and the frozen parts will soon thaw out.

On the other hand, when the steam forms rapidly the water-backs are sure to burst.

Mr. Thomas Neal, one of our oldest citizens, fell yesterday at his home on West Third street and broke his arm.

The collision at Atlantic City Meadows last summer, by which forty-four people were killed and about 100 injured, has thus far cost the companies concerned over $1,000,000 in settlement of claims for damages.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Earl Worick rejoice in the arrival of a 9-pound son at their home near Ferndale. Earl is now quite indifferent as to the price of pumpkins, and other ordinary products of the farm, as he was in town yesterday perfecting plans for an electric line to the moon.

The loanman now is in the "swim" For ice is the river; And in July his freight will Will make consumers shiver.

OPERA-HOUSE TONIGHT!

The Redmen's Entertainment Will Take Place This Evening All-the-Same.

Notwithstanding the somewhat sudden and unexpectedly unexpected departure from the city of Mr. Charles Bishop the Actorine, the Redmen's entertainment will take place at the Opera-house this evening on schedule time.

The friends of the Order are assured of an enjoyable evening and an adequate return for their money.

We bespeak a liberal patronage for the members, who have worked hard to deserve it.

WAS ARRESTED HERE.

Special Policeman Parnell Captures a Man Wanted in Rowan County.

O. A. Kendall was Deputy Marshal of Farmers, a small settlement on the C. and O. Railroad in Rowan county.

Christmas Day one of the residents, Monroe Padgett, got on a high lonesome.

Kendall arrested him and put him in the coop used as a calaboose.

During the night Padgett managed to set free to the shabene, and both it and himself were burned up.

This aroused a good deal of indignation, a large volume of which was directed against Kendall, but for what good reason does not appear.

However, he was charged with negligently causing the death of Padgett, and Judge Carey issued a warrant for his arrest.

The feeling against Kendall ran so high that he sought safety by leaving town, proclaiming all the time that he was innocent of any crime.

Mr. Kendall came to this city Monday night, and Tuesday afternoon he was arrested by Special Policeman Parnell on the warrant of Judge Carey.

Chief Ort yesterday took the prisoner to Morehead.

After his arrest, Mr. Kendall expressed the belief that the warrant was only a plan to get him back to Rowan county, where he feared mob violence.

The outcome will be watched with interest.

Mrs. Parkersburg has sued the town of Farmers for $10,000 damages, alleging negligence and carelessness on the part of the town officers for allowing her husband to burn to death.

Mr. Kendall is known as "Banty," and he formerly lived in Fleming.

Interesting Items That Every Man in Maysville Should Read.

The Board of Directors and the members of the Membership Committee are requested to meet in the Y. M. C. A. Par for this (Thursday) afternoon at 4:30 o'clock sharp. Business of importance will be transacted.

All men—whether they are members or not—who desire the benefits of the Bible training class, mention of which was made in these columns last week, are cordially invited to meet at the rooms this evening at 8:15 o'clock.

There seems to be an impression among many young men of our city that the privileges of the Young Men's Christian Association are altogether for members and that other than members are not welcome. This is emphatically wrong.

Of course, there are many of these privileges, such as the gymnasium, baths, etc., that must be kept for those who pay the regular membership fee, but the reading room is open and free to all young men and old men, too, if they desire its use—and visitors will also be cordially welcomed in the reception room, where the various games are played, and in the members' parlor at any time. While it is hoped that all who possibly can will join the Association,—the dues of which are so small compared with the numerous benefits afforded,—yet no one will ever be debarred from the local Y. M. C. A. rooms and the use of the privileges mentioned above, because he may not be a member.

The Association is in no sense a select club, and its doors are open every week day to the young men of our city, who will be most cordially welcomed whenever they come to visit the rooms.

G. A. McCarthey the Jeweler has removed to No. 23 West Second street, nearly opposite Bank of Mayville, where he will be pleased to meet all demands for anything in his line.

ROMANTIC ELOPEMENT.

The Bride the Seventh of the Family Married in the Same Way.

Matrimonial alliances wherein the principals are clergies and hotel parlors the Mecca of their final tryst are not uncommon in Cincinnati.

But the one performed Tuesday by the Rev. A. M. Harvott in the parlors of the Palace, while being characterized by both these elements, is entitled to distinction in other ways unusually romantic.

The happy principals were Miss Tina Clarke and Mr. C. Dale of Mt. Sterling.

They arrived over the Cincinnati Southern shortly before noon, went for the Minister, were united at the noon hour, and were on their way back home by 2 o'clock.

The ceremony was witnessed by Mr. H. Judy of Mt. Sterling, the husband of one of the bride's sisters, who eloped seven months ago, and Mr. Robert E. Lee, formerly of this city, now Clerk at the Palace.

All these, with the single exception of one—a sister—have eloped.

This was a man married at home, a fine stock farm about six miles from Mt. Sterling.

The latest to incur the parental displeasure is a tall brunette, with large black eyes and a skin not rivaled outside the boundaries of Bluegrassdom.

She said frankly that she expected a storm when she got home, but that "doesn't count."

She left Monday night, stealing out late to meet her future life lord, and together they rode to Mt. Sterling, where she was received by a sister of her husband.

CAPTAIN GRANNAN'S DIVORCE

The Troubles of the Cincinnati Detective Aired in the Courts.

BOTH WELL KNOWN IN THIS CITY.

Captain J. C. Grannan, the celebrated Cincinnati Detective, is quite well known in this city, as is also Mrs. Grannan, who was a daughter of James Davis, an old-time Mayville man.

For some time past the couple had not gotten along pleasantly, and several weeks ago the Captain filed suit for divorce.

The wife, Mrs. Mary D. Grannan, filed counter action of marital infidelity against the Captain, naming as co-respondent a typewriter in his office named Lillie Hackaday.

The case is now on trial before Judge Wright.

According to the Captain's statement on the stand he and Mrs. Grannan had not been living as husband and wife for full three years and a half, but their first trouble dated back about nine years, when he said he became jealous of a young man named student who boarded with them. They never occupied the same room after that.

The cause of the final separation, in July, 1896, was given with much dramatic force by Captain Grannan. His son Louis, who sat close beside his mother, was the moving cause of that separation. The Captain had a young lady clerk of whom the son was evidently suspicious, and one evening when the Captain was in the clerk's room with her attending to some business, the door of their office in Pike's Building was forced with violence.

He ran to see what caused it, and found his son there, who said he had done it. The Captain said this had happened twice before, and he then forbade his son any access to his offices. When he went home he told his wife about it, and she said she knew all about the matter; that Louis had told her that he found him and his clerk in compromising relations.

Here Judge Wright asked Captain Grannan what he said to his son for making such a charge against him.

He said he said nothing to him.

The Court appeared surprised and asked him why he allowed such a charge by his son without holding him to account for it.

The Captain said that such charges against him were of such frequent occurrence that he had adopted a policy of nonresistance.

On cross examination the Captain was asked his age. He declined to answer. The Court ordered him to answer, and he said he would be 61 in June next.

He admitted he had been married before, and that his former wife obtained a divorce from him while he was in the Army. He understood, although he was not served with summons, that it was for adultery.

The Captain denied having tried to induce a servant girl to leave the house and permit him to take a room for her, that she was too small and delicate for house hold work. The claim is that his wife overheard this proposition, and from that time refused cohabitation with him.

The name of Ida Smith, the Toledo woman who answered the letters of Kimball, alias Lavalle, and was induced by him to lead that adventurer a sum of money, which afterward led to his arrest and conviction, was also brought into the case, but he claimed she was his client, and was only one of a number of innocent women wrongfully suspected by his wife. A letter of hers was introduced, by which she sent a number of presents to him for his kindness and good advice to her, and sent her regards to himself and Mrs. Grannan and the family.

Several other witnesses were examined, and it developed that many of the witnesses called by the plaintiff had been subpoenaed also by the defendant and most of the testimony given by them was favorable to the cause of Mrs. Grannan, which fact caused considerable consternation in the ranks of the counsel for the plaintiff.

The evidence adduced made it appear that rather sensational developments may be looked for, in that substantiation of the charges of acts of extreme cruelty began to appear, the same being given by the witnesses subpoenaed first by the plaintiff and later by the defendant.

Cool wagons and ice wagons came near monopolizing the streets yesterday—the former laden with something to keep you warm now, and the latter with something to keep you cool next summer.

FLOTSAM—JETSAM—LIGAN!

NEWS NOTES FROM NATURE'S GREAT HIGHWAY.

The Jessie with a low of empties is laid up at the lower grade.

The river yesterday was filled with huge floes of ice. Both banks are lined with solid ice, and the still water caused by the wharfboat and coal landings is frozen hard.

The principal reason for suspending operations seems to be in the difficulty experienced in making landings on account of the heavy ice obstructing both banks of the river.

The boats operating out of this port are laid up at the following points: The Keystone State at Pittsburgh, Hudson and Bonanza at Ashland, Henry M. Stanley in Licking River, Virginia, Shelby and Cincinnati at Cincinnati.

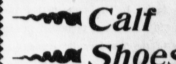

Many points in the upper Ohio river are reported frozen over, and both Kanawha rivers are also blocked with ice. The Big Sandy river was putting out ice slowly Tuesday, but yesterday it stopped, and that stream is now blocked off.

Navigation is entirely suspended at this port, with the single exception of the ferry-boat Lawrence, which is kept busy breaking the ice from the wharfboat and the ferry landing, and all the packets running out of here have been laid up to await developments.

The following is the standing of the river from headwaters to this point up to 12 o'clock last night:

Old City, 1 1/2 falling.
Pittsburgh, 2 1/2 falling.
Davis Island Dam, 4 1/2, stationary.
Wheeling, 5 1/2 falling.
Parkersburg, 8 falling.
Hinton, 1 1/2 falling.
Charleston, 4 1/2 falling.
Point Pleasant, 7 1/2 falling.
Catsburg, 11 1/2 falling.
Petersmouth, 12 1/2 falling.
Mayville, 13 falling.
